N E W S L E T T E R

No. 68

January 1996

NOTICES

1996 DUES WERE DUE on 1 January. Anyone whose dues have not been paid since 1993 will be dropped from the membership/mailling list. The most recent paid up dues date appears above members' names on the mailing label. Members are encouraged to pay dues a few years at a time as this ensures paid-up status and simplifies record-keeping.

Non-U.S. members please note: you may now pay dues by foreign hard currency drafts at reasonable exchange equivalents of the appropriate American membership rate. The Association's bank in Providence has waived foreign currency conversion charges.

Paid-up members of AAH are entitled to a $12.80 (20% discount) annual subscription rate to the American Journal of Ancient History. Write to: AJAH, Dept. of History, Robinson Hall, Harvard Univ., Cambridge, MA 02138. (Please do not direct questions concerning AJAH to the Secretary-Treasurer; the journal is an entirely separate operation.)

1 March Deadline for Receipt of Notices for Spring AAH Newsletter

The Secretary-Treasurer reminds you that the newsletter contents are based on news submitted by members.

So, please serve it forth! — D.D.

MEMBERS REPORT

* Alan Bowman reports that the Faculty Centre for the Study of Ancient Documents at the University of Oxford has established a David Lewis Fund and Lecture Series in honor and memory of our recently deceased colleague. Each year, income from the fund will be used to pay the emoluments of a scholar invited to give a lecture relevant to the study of ancient history through inscriptional or other documentary sources. Colleagues interested in making donations to the fund or submitting comments or suggestions about the development of plans for the Centre or the lecture series are asked to contact Alan K. Bowman, Director, Centre for the Study of Ancient Documents, 67 St. Giles, Oxford OX1 3LU, UK.

* Donald Lateiner reports the formation of a new organization, CANVBE (Classical Antiquity: Nonverbal Behaviors) whose aim is to promote and support awareness, research and publication about communications by gestures, postures, expressions and "everything else that goes without saying." He promises that the first five respondents are in line for magistracies in the organizations. Interested members can contact him at CANVBE, Humanities-Classics, Ohio-Wesleyan, Delaware, OH 43015.

* President Carol Thomas reports: After announcing the existence of our home page in the last Newsletter, I learned from several careful readers that a computer printing error made access impossible. Here it is again: <http://weber.u.washington.edu/~clio/aah> (The misprint replaced the cedilla with a straight line.) I encourage you to look at it for new information that becomes available between newsletters. For example, Cynthia Schwenk will soon send me the final program for our annual meeting and I will put it on our home page. It is possible, too, that initial steps toward the creation of a revised Directory of Ancient Historians will occur via the home page. This project is only in the planning stage.

Another project is further along: the survey of graduate programs in ancient history coordinated by Michael Arnush. If you have yet to return a completed questionnaire, he would be glad to have it as soon as possible.

Sales of Makedonika are moving along nicely. If you have not ordered a copy for yourself or your library, I urge you to do so soon.

Happy New Year!
